MISS OSCIE SANDERS

In appreciation of her continuous guidance in showing us our weaknesses and helping us, by her love and encouragement, to strengthen them.

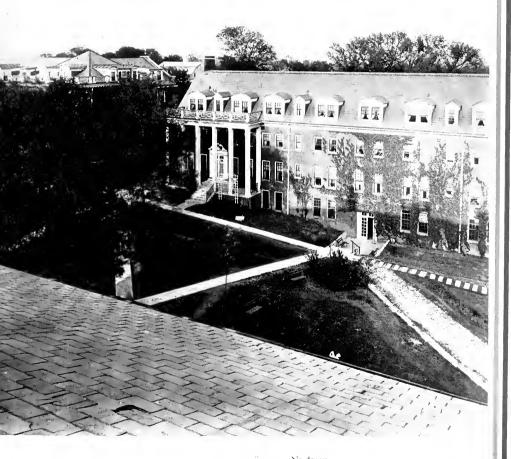

b . b

When summer comes, how still it all must seem— That campus, drowsing in a next year's dream."

"- O, dusky pillars, stand forever straight

Beat stronger than the memory of moonlight That wets grey slate roofs . . . ,"

1) Spring is just the same year after year. Why am I breathless as I wait it here?"

SENIOR SONG

I

We pledge now our love for our old W.-B., We vow to be ever true;

We pledge, too, our love for our dear Senior Class—God bless them, the old and the new.

We'll hold high those colors, the Gold and the Blue; Our banners shall kiss the sky.

Our faith all resisting, our goal for life's best, Our motto, "To do or die."

Π

The joys we have here will not fly as the leaves; They'll last us life's journey through;

And the love we have now for the friendships we've made Will live in our memories, too;

And though we must part from each other some day, As Seniors have parted before,

The glorious spirit of old '33 Will linger for evermore.

Afternoon of the Year

A long time ago She gaily kicked the rusty leaves As she went along to school I could tell when she passed By the chatter of the leaves After school

Now, she steps by carefully In bright, high-heeled shoes. The leaves are quiet now— Soon she will not pass again— So I listen afternoons. For the click of colored shoes Between the dried magnolia leaves. HELEN CONLEY, '33.

Faith

A time I lived. I breathed, I I hew the dart
Of love's pure ecstasy of golden glow.
In you there dweet the soul of all by heart,
Soul there dweet the soul of all by heart,
I would not breathed from out your life—my breath—yet now that spark that vivified—has died.
I find my eyes of all their sight—bereft:
And all that vision there has cried—untried.
I'm forced to wander alone in a daze
While on lone hope, your faith, shines through the mist;
A lamp, so I, faltering out of the maze,
May merge with thee: that in eternal tryst.
My light will bright my eyes, my breath inspire
My life; my soul enthrailed my heart's true fire.

YRIGHIA LIVINGSTON. 34 VIRGINIA LIVINGSTON, '34

Home

You're such a funny little town Smuggled down among the hills. Curled up on the river's bank. Sometimes I think I'd like To hug you. But the dignity of your quiet, shaded streets. The gentle graciousness of still, white houses Hidden among the pines and beeches, Stops my arms and makes me Kneel instead.

Lois Milton, '33,

Camouflage

Tall pine trees-barren except for tufts of green at the

Stand as tutelage guarding—perhaps warning us— Of the writhing, lewd, jumbo trees waiting to twine about us—

Dragging us into the mire—camoullaged by squat palmetto
Tall greedy towers of stucco culminating in grasping

spires— Standing as monuments of man's futile desires—money fulfilled

Pursued and harrowed by the rushing and snatching Dragging us into the mire—camouflaged by glitter— Tall aspiring thoughts groping for the liner things— Stand as buttresses impregnating the walls of sanity Against the crumbling forces of twisting concepts— Which filter through—camouflaged against reality

DOROTHY STEWART, '33

Ships and Seas

The men who walk upon the city streets. Who str at oaken tables whale they dine. Who drink from small thin glasses filled with wine. Are only ships or parts of ocean fleets. These men, like sailing ships, perform their feats of strength; at dawn, each vessel waits in line. Until the signal sounds. Their forms enshrine The secret of their victories or defeats. This even stream of life wells like the sea. On which a fleet of ships may sail. The calm May reign, yet the infernal ocean's palm May claim a multitude of seamen's breath To men and ships of strength there cannot be Defeat, for God and Life can conquer Death.

Virigina Doss. 33 Virginia Doss, *33,

Thanksgiving

Dear Lord, I'm thankful, I suppose, Dear Lord, I'm thankful, I suppose, For winter's snow and summer's rose; For morals straight and plainest face. That chiminate the sinful paic of the pit Where Looking up I see the sinful sit; For love and life I get from books. But must not meet in nearer nooks; For cotton and wool so wearable, Albeit they are not fashionable; For clerical respectability. That makes for peceability suppose, For medicarciny and cursed renose. For mediocraty and cursed repose.

Egypt

N ghtingales' notes drip from the eucalyptus tree, Gray granite sphinxes squat on a saffron sea— From a blue lagoon From a fine lagoon
The crescent moon
Climbs ebony steps; with a bright harpoon
Spears an eastern star, and rocks in the night,
Making filigree lace—
Spins silver threads and twists them tight Making filigree lace—
Spins silver threads and twists them tight. In a taut embrace, Trace and retrace—
Trace and retrace—
Trace and retrace—
Trace and retrace—
Binding star to star in the blinding night. On cypress branches bat wings light:
Ichneumons, small and loathsome, crawl Deep in the dank drit, dread to all Whose conscience lies unquiet, Whose flesh creeps, and whose det. Is the bitter food of sad remorse. Iss wings the sand-laden darkness, bus leaves to open dismal darkness, bus leaves to open dismal darkness, bus leaves to open dismal darkness, bus and the same star of the same star o The enigmatic pyramids stand-Where the Rameses sleep And the vultures keep
Their unrelenting vigil—in the priest Manetho's fabled

Where the vain flamingo stalks.
Where poppies and the helianthus bloom,
Where Tutankhamen's spirit walks,
And Cheops Haunts the columned chambers of his tomb. JOSEPHINE SCOTI, '34

Songs of the West

West to the Primitive

White, clear streams Boasting cool-splashing trout; A pool or so of stagnant blue, Green lakes, Orten takes,
Somber, snow-capped mountains
Of a looming black range
A sense of infinite loneliness.
Peace Inspiration
Flint-fires glowing
In a cool, pine-scented eve.

The Business Man's West

White hotels with tiled, red roofs
Bespeaking, civilization
Fields of prosperous, yellow wheat,
Fields of prosperous, yellow wheat,
Fields of promising, green grain.
Tractors humming songs of civilization.
White sheep grazing—
Fat white sheep eating grass
Underneath the stark oil derricks
Automobiles, cattle,
The Million-Dollar Highway!

III.

For Those Seeking Beauty

A long, snake river through giant fir forests, The wood smoke of campers fires Forming a gray haze above green. Forming a gray haze above green. Men in a canoe Gliding alone on a green, snake river. Rain in the mountains. And a mist.—thick, soft. Mesas and the Rio Grande, Silvertown, Uray.

IV

Poetry in the West

Sod houses blistered by the sun. Sod pueblo homes for Indian people, Or lone homes on the barren prairie. Serene blue skies; threatening Gray skies; skies of billowing white. Cowboys on shaggy steeds, Worn boys, with the West in their Clear eves Worn boys, with the West in their Clear eyes An eagle's wail from a high, cliff nest As to eagles that were to be Are borne by a gust from the place of safety. Mercilessly are tumbled the delicate eggs. Mercilessly to the floor of a bottomless cavern, The white shells crushed The white shells crushed By roaring, ravaging torrent, Awe-inspiring, The Waterfall! Endless yellow desert stretching from the sun, Reaching longing, burnt fingers To the cold moon. Life-giving only to the repellent desert flowers. Tiny, desert towns, And Irem kith parched souls Aymare—but not entirely—Forgotten civilization.

JANE MOORE, '33.

June Night

June has laid her finger on her lips Neath the heaven's silence and darkness, The darkness splashed with moonlight, Interwoven with darting lanterns of fireflies, And the silence Intermittent with murmurs From whisperin, grass and gardens

On a lavender sky On a lavender sky
Where it slopes to meet the dark and quiet carth,
Trees fling their black lace;
Stars fret its serenity with their silver filigree.
And, tangled in the top of the tallest tree Is the moon, Its glowing ivory Broken into many little pieces
By the black-webbed tracery of the topmost branches Beauty of spun crystal Evanescent as perfume, This night The elves and the fairles court And keep their trysts. VIRGINIA WALKER, '33.

How luminously lovely are the lights beneath my window, Shining like pale pearls through the velvet mcke—Remote and misted jewels. Or the eyes of an Egyptian woman Behind a wispy, tantalizing veil, Beckoning.

The smoke rises in great folds-Tranquil and pure, unblemished white. Its subtle invitation is that of rippling currents Neath a surface unruffled and serene.

The source of this slow beauty is a gleaming, panting monster, Fiery-eyed and gluttonous, Ever demanding the satisfaction of its greed How incongruous in its significance: Soft velvet . . . liquid pearls hard steel . All in the name of one great God— Civilization Frances Powell, '33.

Canyon Moods

The canyon in the morning Is like some gossamer creature—waking. Somewhat Izally—stretching—Yawning—A wonderful creature Of misty beauties ilmv-Flusive

The canyon is like some prehistoric monsters maw In the merciless sunlight of noon-day. Red-lined, sabre-toothed— Beautifully, ugly— Gaudily colored— Fierce— Vibrant— Vivid.

The canyon at evening is like The canyon at evening is like
A rich old arras,
Mellowed and toned by time.
Soothing and vaguely mysterious—
Sleepy—
Contented— Clothed in king's colors
Of royal blues and imperial purples— Blended-harmonious

The canyon at night is a graveyardrillared— Monumented and cold— Tones of light and dark in the moonlight. Wierd and ghostly— Sepulchred— Mousoleumed-Forgotten and awe-inspiring— Aloof— Fascinating.

RUBIE BATTEY, '33

SPORTS SUMMARY, 1932-33

Ward-Belmont has been fortunate this year in having most of the girls interested in all the sports. The athletic interest seems to have been greater this year than ever before. This campus-wide enthusiasm enabled the cups to have a more or less equal distribution.

With the beginning of the school year we find girls out on the tennis courts practicing for the Tennis Single's Tournament. Many exciting as well as interesting matches took place before all the entrees were eliminated except Bosserman and Cherrington. After a fast game, Cherrington won, and thus gave the cup to the A. K.'s.

The fall horse show was very good. This year, for the first time, points were given to girls entering. Excellent horsemanship was displayed by all the entrants, especially by the Tri K's and the F. F.'s who won first and second place, respectively.

Many of the non-athletes were certainly glad when the hockey games were over. They do like their sleep, and early morning practices didn't by any means encourage sleep. The A. $K.\ 's$, Angkors, $Tri\ K$'s, and Penta Taus were the four teams that won their three games, thereby being in the semi-finals. The A. $K.\ 's$ lost to the 'Tri K's, and the Angkors to the Penta Taus. Once more the 'Tri K's faced the Penta Taus on the hockey field 'Thanksgiving day, and once more the 'Tri K's were victorious. The game was exciting, but the teams didn't show up as well as was expected. It was a hard, long-fought battle with the final score only 4-5. Excellent sportsmanship prevailed on both sides.

Before Christmas basketball practices started, but no real interest was shown until after the holidays. Then, signals began to take on more meaning. In a splendid battle the Aristons won over the Tri K's. Jane Hall proved to be one of the best basketball players ever to play at Ward-Belmont. She not only has a good eye but is also extremely fast, and that's what it takes.

Much practicing was done for the swimming meet. The A. K.'s decided not to share the cup with the Penta Taus. And they didn't! Dick Stewart was the individual winner of the meet, placing first in diving, form, and speed. This is the second year she has won the meet. The A. K's won the relay with a very fast team, thereby winning the cup.

The gym meet this year was as good as usual. Rae Baker and Virginia Brown tied as individual winners. The F. F. Club now is the proud possessor of the Gym Placque.

The Del Vers claimed the Bowling Cup this year, having two girls on Varsity.

Senior Senior-Middle Day, and what a surprise for most of those young lassies who hung gold paper around the campus. Starting off the day, the Senior-Nids won baseball. The Seniors captured bowling, the second sport. Just before lunch they tied in hockey. Lunch seemed to have a good effect on the Senior-Mids, because they renewed their vigor and won water polo and basketball, thus winning the day, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$.

The dancing department put on one of the most unique performances that Ward-Belmont has ever seen. The Spaghetti dance, an outstanding number, contained one of the best drilled routines ever seen.

Water polo It seems that the A. K.'s and Penta Taus always have teams capable of getting into the finals. The three teams left were the A. K's, Tri K's and Penta Taus. The A. K's beat the Tri K's, and the Penta Taus beat the A. K's, thereby winning the water polo cup for the second year in succession.

The spring Riding Show was considered exceptionally good. One of the attractions was pair jumping, which was something new for Ward-Belmont shows. The girls rode very well and upheld the honors of their various clubs in excellent fashion. Virginia Riesel won the Show with the highest number of individual points. The cup went to the Tri K club, and in the final class, The Best Rider Class, Virginia Riesel again won making it the second year in succession for her to receive this honor.

Spring sports included track, archery, tennis doubles, and baseball. Large crowds gathered in the afternoons to watch the club tournament and with two games going on at once, the excitement was high. With the closing of the tennis doubles and the baseball tournaments and the end of track, the athletics for the year drew to a close.
